Study Notes

Green plants use sunlight to make food. Their leaves take in carbon dioxide, while roots absorb water. This process releases oxygen. Remember the three inputs: light, water, and carbon dioxide.